

PERKINS UPHOLDS INHERITANCE TAX

New York Representative Maintains State Has Claim on Big Fortunes.

CAN'T RESTRICT WEALTH

After Death Estate Should Pay for Man's Opportunities for Prosperity.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 14.—In an address here before the Economic Club, Representative James B. Perkins, of Rochester, N. Y., upheld the right of every man to accumulate all the money he honestly could, but maintained the right of the state to enforce a heavy inheritance tax upon the theory that great fortunes are made through the opportunities offered by the prosperous state, and that, as Lord Chief Justice Coleridge held, "The right of inheritance is a purely artificial right."

"Most of the great fortunes of the past," said Mr. Perkins, referring to the wealth of ancient times, "were made through relations with the state, or from the possession of political power. It is to the credit of the present that the great fortunes of this day are not made from the profits of office, but from the profits of business. In the accumulation of wealth as a result of industrial enterprise, doubtless this age far exceeds all others. But the world progresses as a result of individual enterprise; the complete and harmonious development of the individual is perhaps the great achievement of civilization."

No Restriction on Amount.

"It is almost impossible that the accumulation of a large fortune should not contribute to the business development of the country, to the employment of labor, to the establishment of enterprise in the prosperity of which others may share, though in less degree. Mr. Harriman and Mr. Hill have made great fortunes in the development of railroad systems; they have improved their methods of operation; they have made them more useful to the public. I doubt if the state will ever attempt to restrict the amount that any man can honestly make from the combination of his own intelligence with the opportunities offered by the growth of wealth and business and population in modern times."

"Doubtless the accumulation of wealth requires the brains of the man as well as the opportunities of the state but it requires the opportunities of the state as well as the brains of the man. I think, therefore, we can easily answer in the affirmative the question of the moral right of the state to impose a large tax upon the property of its citizen when he invokes its aid in disposing of the property which he has left behind."

State's Paternal Care.

"That parents should desire a reasonable competency for their children, property that will secure to them the advantages of education and reasonable freedom of action in life, is natural and commendable; no one would seek to interfere with this; but the desire that

Miss Morgan Pilot For Lipton's Yacht

Should Sir Thomas Again Try for the America's Cup He Has Secured Philadelphia Heiress to Take the Wheel.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—That the yacht which Sir Thomas Lipton brings to this country for another try at the America's Cup will be piloted by Miss Jane Morgan, one of the most enthusiastic yachtswomen, was announced today by persons close to Sir Thomas's confidence.

Sir Thomas paid a visit to Philadelphia yesterday to the home of Miss Morgan, daughter of Randall Morgan, the Philadelphia traction magnate, and it was said he had an interview in which he secured the promise of Miss Morgan to pilot his yacht should he bring another one to this country.

Holds Sea Captain's License.

Miss Morgan since 1891 has held a license for navigating "all oceans." This is the highest mark of navigating skill, and there are only two other women in the world who hold a similar license. Miss Morgan also holds a certificate as a child should inherit twenty millions or fifty millions or a hundred millions, a sum vastly in excess of any possible or reasonable need for any profitable mode of life, presents a very different question. Though the parent may entertain such a desire the state is not bound to regard it. Such accumulations are usually neither for the benefit of the state nor the heir.

RESIGNATION OF PLATT

REGARDED AS PROBABLE: SCANDAL FORCES ISSUE

general denial of the stories of his acquaintance with Mrs. La Mont and of his wife's finding him in the Thirty-third street house.

"Lies, lies, all lies," he piped in a feeble voice, as he was being assisted into his cab to be driven to his office, and no persuasion could induce him to add to that statement.

Received Favors From Senator.

Mrs. La Mont denied there was anybody with the Senator at the time Mrs. Platt, accompanied by her coachman, Hedges, and private detectives, was said to have made the raid on him; but as to her personal relations with the Senator she was very ready to talk.

In fact, Mrs. La Mont impressed upon reporters that she and Senator Platt had been close friends for many years. He had had a room in her house and she referred to many instances when the Senator obtained railroad passes for her and positions in the Government and United States Express Company service for her friends. He had called in regard to arranging for passes to West Baden, Ind., for herself and a friend. Mrs. La Mont said, at the time Mrs. Platt found him in the house.

Mrs. La Mont admitted that Senator Platt had frequently met women in her house, but she insisted that it was always on business, and that in the case of a man of such an exalted position it was not her place to inquire into his private reason for desiring to have the meetings in her house rather than in the Fifth Avenue Hotel or the Hotel master of her father's yacht, the Waters, which once belonged to Emperor Francis Joseph. She also holds an additional license permitting her to pilot boats in Philadelphia waters.

It is no easy matter to obtain pilot's license for the waters in this vicinity, and a person applying for one has to pass a most rigid examination.

Passed Rigid Examination.

At the time of examination Miss Morgan covered eight pages of foolscap paper with answers put to her by the inspectors, and they were exceedingly accurate. Her license allows her to pilot anything from an ordinary slow yacht to a ocean liner.

Miss Morgan is extremely popular among the young society folks. She is a lover of outdoor sports, and spends most of her time on the water, being a member of the Sedgely Club, an exclusive boating organization. She lives with her parents in a beautiful home in Willow Grove avenue, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia.

Gotham, where for many years the Senator has lived.

As to the respectability of her house, Mrs. La Mont was most emphatic, and cautioned her interviewers not to draw any contrary conclusions. Throughout the interview she made it appear that she is far more friendly disposed to Senator Platt than to Mrs. Platt, uttering veiled threats against the latter in case she is made to appear in an unfavorable light in connection with the case.

Mrs. La Mont's description of the raid of Mrs. Platt on the house and her trip to the window when Mrs. Platt (as Mrs. La Mont insisted upon calling Mrs. Platt) "burst into the apartment. If Mrs. Janeway makes any trouble for me on that account or for any other reason she will hear from me. Senator Platt has had lodging here with me for the last five years, using my house for meetings of a private character and when he had business to transact which was no concern of the public."

It is Senator Platt's present plan to remain in the Hotel Gotham until the opening of Congress, when he expects to take his seat in the Senate. In Washington he will return to his old quarters in the Arlington, which he gave up when he was married to Mrs. Janeway.

GOLD TREASURE, $3,000,000.

DUG UP UNDER CATHEDRAL.

PUEBLO, Mexico, Nov. 15.—A vast store of gold ornaments has been unearthed under the altar of the ancient Santo Domingo cathedral in this city. It is valued at $3,000,000. The papal delegate has been notified of the rich find.

ROOT WILL DEFEND MONROE DOCTRINE

To Refute Burgess' Claim at Trans-Mississippi Congress, for President.

That the Monroe Doctrine still lives and is not a dead letter, as recently declared by Prof. Burgess, in his Berlin address, will be vigorously proclaimed by Secretary of State Root in his speech before the leading commercial men of the West, and in the presence of a dozen diplomats of the Latin-American republics.

The address will be delivered at the banquet of the Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress in Kansas City, next Tuesday evening. The Monroe Doctrine and the commercial opportunities of the United States in southern republics will be the chief subject under discussion at both this banquet and at a dinner to be given by the Commercial Club of Kansas City on the evening previous, at which informal talks will likely be made by Secretary Root and the other diplomats.

At the banquet, aside from Secretary Root, John Barrett, American minister to Colombia, and a number of other diplomats will make addresses. The informal talks will likely be made by Secretary Root and the other diplomats.

It is understood, unofficially, that in his address Mr. Root will represent the views of President Roosevelt. The utterances of Prof. Burgess recently are known to have greatly displeased the President, and it is thought he will take this opportunity to make denial that this country proposes to continue the old policy on which they have relied for almost a century.

The other addresses which Secretary Root will deliver while on his Western trip—one before the Kansas Commercial Club and one each in St. Louis and Cincinnati—will be more or less extemporaneous, but all will have to do with his trip to South America and the commercial opportunities of those countries.

Among the foreign diplomats who will attend the Kansas City dinner are Senor Amaral, representing the Brazilian ambassador; Senor Pardo, minister from Peru; Senor Castro, minister from Colombia; Senor Calderon, minister from Bolivia; Mr. Calvo, minister from Costa Rica; Mr. Voachman, charge d'affaires at the Chilean legation, and, perhaps, two or three others.
